

COST Action 20131: Efficient Justice for All

DOLOMITES Workshop 2025:

“Scientists meet to produce research results – Episode II”

Alba di Canazei (Trento) – IT – 22-28 June, 2025

The goal of the COST workshop (version 2025) is to continue analyzing the available data collected at court's level in each country and working on joint research initiatives, in particular on the chapters for the two books to be handed in in few months. There will be also a training for PhD students interested in working on courts performance evaluation.

The specific objectives of the workshop and the structure of the activities are the following.

- 1) To present the chapters of the “Performance book”, so that each chapter's authors can inform on the state of the art of their work, share with other participants ideas and issues, get feedback, discuss common notation, etc.
- 2) To present a selected number of chapters of the “Law book”, with the same purpose of point 1) above and to show some good examples to follow, plus the draft of the final summary chapter with an overall comparison of different countries across different dimensions of their judicial systems.
- 3) In general, we intend to offer a ‘logistic platform’ to all COST colleagues who may find useful to meet with other participants in a focused but relaxed setting to do research. We do not plan to provide formal ‘training’, but we would like to invite all colleagues who have been collecting data to join and try to find – among the COST members more versed with performance methodology – a good match to work together on their data. In this fashion, we envision that the ‘training’ may in fact be more targeted to specific needs and done in small groups.
